Elderly Clients: A Precedent Manual provides a wealth of precedents to assist the private client adviser tackle the whole range of issues affecting the elder client. These include the difficult and ever-changing problems of planning for a client's possible incapacity in later life, care contracts, funeral planning, wills and equity release schemes. In addition to the precedents, the legal framework underpinning each area is set out in clear terms and is accompanied by useful checklists to assist the adviser in such matters as registering a lasting power of attorney and establishing whether the Where an elderly client is introduced to a solicitor by a third party for the purpose of making a will, best practice requires that the solicitor ensures that a full and thorough knowledge of the testator's circumstances is acquired before proceeding. Consideration should be given to the possibility that the elderly person may have his/her own solicitor but may have been diverted to another solicitor in order to bypass advice already received. Such advice, while it would have been given in the best interests of the testator, may not be deemed appropriate by family or friends.
