There are a number of ways you can make money in property. Unfortunately, there are equally as many ways to lose your cash. The key is to understand the different investment strategies before you dive in. Choosing the right property strategy can be overwhelming, especially if you're just starting out and talking to different experts. For example, financial planners may suggest you buy new property to maximise depreciation. Developers may suggest off-the-plan properties, while your accountant may advise you to look at older properties. Property investment takes some research. Picture: Getty. The logic with this real estate valuation method is that there is no sense in paying more for a property if building its replica would cost less. Calculation. As mentioned, there are three main components when it comes to valuating investment property with the cost approach. The value of the land, the cost of building construction, and real estate depreciation. The cost approach formula is
