Scholarly alternatives to Philosopher's Index

International philosophical bibliography = Répertoire bibliographique de la philosophie = Bibliografisch repertorium van de wijsbegeerte. Seattle University: v. 41, 1991- .
University of Washington: v. 43, 1991- .

Bibliographie de la philosophie = Bibliography of philosophy. University of Washington: -1994.
Seattle University: -1983. Includes abstracts, but is less comprehensive than the International philosophical bibliography (above), having been focused since 1954 on books only, not the periodical literature.

Dietrich's Index Philosophicus. 1983- . Was marketed in North America by the Philosophy Documentation Center as simply Index Philosophicus. Is supposed to be especially good at philosophical Festschriften (Bynagle).

FRANCIS (now a database). Formerly Bulletin Signalétique 519: Bibliographie de la philosophie. For its even earlier history, see Bynagle, 2nd ed., p. 34 ff. Online version does not contain all previous print.

Index Philosophicus. See Dietrich's Index Philosophicus, above.

*Philosopher's Index (Philosopher's Information Center). An SPU database. Does this now contain the retrospective indices listed on p. 39 of the 2nd edition of Bynagle?

A guide to writing and referencing. For literature in English. Paper 3 portfolio/ school-based assessment. English Language Education Section Curriculum Development Institute Education Bureau HKSAR (updated in March 2016). Contents. PREFACE

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS. This part provides detailed explanation and examples on how to cite different types of materials and sources of information using the MLA citation style. Teachers may select and adapt the materials, and introduce them to students. While the MLA style of documentation, which is a citation convention widely used in literary research, is adopted in this Part, teachers may introduce other citation formats, such as the APA style, to students. 4. Illustrative example of possible focus questions for the initial parts of a confirmation document 5. Illustrative example of problem solving research: An outline of the introduction from a research article. 6. Signposting. 7. Hedges and boosters / critical review language. 8. "Evolving" a piece of writing from first thoughts to a polished product. 10. Approaches to note-taking. Reviewing the Literature: A Short Guide for Research Students. In brief: Reviews of previous literature in a thesis or research paper are not summaries of every article you have read, but rather an exposition of the existing knowledge and reasoning which led you to believe that what you did was worth doing in the way that you did it, written so as to convince the reader of these things.
