Adding physical material from scratch. Click on either the In Project or the In Library material list. Do one of the following: Click the Add Material button ( ) on the Physical Materials dialog. Right-click and choose Add Material in the context menu. A material named New is added in the selected database. Edit the newly created material. Adding a physical material as a copy of an existing material. Select a material in either the In Project or the In Library material list. Do one of the following: Click the Add Material button ( ) on the Physical Materials dialog. Right-click and choose Add Material Additional material property libraries that use the "CSiMaterialLibrary.xsd" schema may also be added by the user to this subfolder and/or to the subfolder "Property Libraries" under the user settings folder where the "SAP2000 v18.ini" file is located. These files are first read in alphabetical order from the installation subfolder, then from the user settings subfolder. The newly defined material property will be highlighted in the Materials list box. Highlight the newly defined definition and click the Modify/Show Material button to display the Material Property Data form and review, and where appropriate, modify the specifications for the definition. A built-in Region, Standard, and Grade called "User" are also available for each material type.
