The First Eden is a glorious portrait of the landscape, wildlife and plants of the Mediterranean, presented by Sir David Attenborough. From the earliest human settlements to the cities of today, across the deserts of North Africa to the forests of southern Europe, this series tells the dramatic story of man and nature at work. It was one of the shorter series that followed the phenomenal success of The Living Planet. From Amazon.co.uk.Â But where nature was once seen as divine, now it is man; and the natural world suffered. If the bull dominates episode two, it is the horse in the next, titled "The Wastes of War"™, when the Mediterranean almost became an Islamic lake. This was a time when horsemanship was supreme, peacocks paraded in gardens, and pigeons were bred for food.
