Hidden Histories argues that the history of Palestine has been hidden, and that the struggle for Palestinian rights has also to encompass the struggle for their history and culture. The Palestinian people did not lose only their land in the Nakba of 1948, but their history as well. In Hidden Histories, Raad explores how the Israeli colonisation of Palestine is also a colonisation of the Palestinian past; a continuing cultural appropriation which is particularly important because of the central role played in Zionism by the idea that the Jewish people are the original and therefore rightful owners of the territory.
